C. D. Whitcomb : A Lake Tour to Picturesque Mackinac: Historical and Descriptive (Classic Reprint) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised A Lake Tour to Picturesque Mackinac: Historical and Descriptive (Classic Reprint):

Excerpt from A Lake Tour to Picturesque Mackinac: Historical and Descriptive At that time a movement was made looking to the organization of a club to consist of possibly forty among the Young business men Of Detroit, for the purpose Of constructing and maintaining a club house, to be located upon lake St. Clair, at a point which might be selected as the most convenient from which to reach the fishing grounds. The proposition met with great favor, and it soon became manifest that the membership Of the proposed club would exceed by far the number first intended, and that the contemplated improvements would have to be correspondingly enlarged. In the spring Of 1872, the original club house was built upon its present site, about one-third of a mile above the ship canal. It was constructed entirely upon piles, with running water around and beneath it. This building has been added to.
