If you live east of Hartford (I live in Glastonbury) and you're looking for a few hikes that won't empty your gas tank - I wouldn't recommend this book. There is nothing listed for my surrounding area and Gay City State Park is about 20 minutes from my house. Blackledge Falls is lovely though admittedly quite a short hike (I can make it about an hour) and is not mentioned nor the Shenipsit trail. The mid-to northwest area of the CT map is pretty empty (and it's not bereft of possibilities although maybe they're not the 50 Best, according to the author).

This one too! I like the layout they use and how descriptive they get in their guides. My only wish would be more hiking areas in our state that are spread out and not mainly in one corner. Otherwise, good solid guide overall.

This new guide from the experts at the Appalachian Mountain Club leads beginner and experienced hikers alike along 50 of Connecticut's most spectacular trails, from short family nature walks to long day hikes that reward with magnificent views. Inside, readers will find 50 detailed trail descriptions with maps, Nature Notes on the region's flora and fauna, and more. Readers will also learn the best trails for snowshoeing and cross-country skiing, and find other opportunities for outdoor adventure. AMC's Best Day Hikes in Connecticut is an essential four-season reference for visitors and locals, new and experienced hikers, and everyone in between who wants to explore the state's hidden pockets of wilderness.
