

[Read ebook] An Imam In Paris: Al-Tahtawi's Visit To France 1826-1831 (Saqi Essentials)

An Imam In Paris: Al-Tahtawi's Visit To France 1826-1831 (Saqi Essentials)

Rifa'a Rafi' al-Tahtawi
ePub | *DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF

Download

Read Online

#736888 in Books 2011-12-13 Original language: English PDF # 1 8.25 x 1.25 x 5.251, 1.10 #File Name: 0863564070405 pages | File size: 72.Mb

Rifa'a Rafi' al-Tahtawi : An Imam In Paris: Al-Tahtawi's Visit To France 1826-1831 (Saqi Essentials) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised An Imam In Paris: Al-Tahtawi's Visit To France 1826-1831 (Saqi Essentials):

1 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Good ReadBy John E ReimersI enjoyed the book very much.0 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Four StarsBy ACSGlad I found it, good price.5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. Travel Lit Coming from the Other DirectionBy green chili readerToo often Western visitors to the Mideast are portrayed as innocents lost in a morass of confusion. Here we find an Egyptian in much the same position in 19th century France. Al-Tahtawi finds much to admire in Paris (mechanical engineering and the hard sciences) and much to dislike (foodstuffs generally and the regrettable mode of dress). Above all, his reactions are framed by a kind of confusion that is the exact parallel of European experiences in Egypt (as Lane, Belzoni, and Wallis Budge, for example, can clearly attest). He may not provide the kind of analysis of society that De Tocqueville does for the United States, but his observations are nonetheless fascinating. The scholarly notes and introduction are also first-rate.

"An Imam in Paris lets us share the responses of a highly intelligent scholar ... Daniel L. Newman is to be congratulated on making the first translation into English of this remarkable book, and on supporting the text with a first-class introduction and with footnotes that are as full as one could wish"Times Literary Supplement"A touchstone for thinking about the tangled relations between Islam and modernity ... the most amazing and entertaining curiosity"Matthew J. Reisz, Jewish QuarterlyIn the 1820s, Rifa'a Rafi' al-Tahtawi, a young Muslim cleric, travelled to Paris as a leading member of the first Egyptian educational mission, where, during a stay of five years, he documented his observations on European culture.His account, Takhlis al-Ibriz fi Talkhis Bariz (The Quintessence of Paris), is one of the earliest and most influential records of the Muslim encounter with Enlightenment-era's European ideas, introducing ideas of modernity to his native land. Al-Tahtawi's work offers invaluable insight into early conceptions of Europe and the "Other". His observations are as vibrant and palpable today as they were over one hundred and fifty years ago; informative and often acute, to very humorous effect.An irrefutable classic, this new edition of the first English translation is of seminal value. It is introduced and carefully annotated by a scholar fluent in the life, times, and milieu of its narrator.Daniel L. Newman is professor of Arabic and course director of the master's program in Arabic-English Translation and Interpreting at the University of Durham. His other works include Modern Arabic Short Stories: A Bilingual Reader (with Ronak Husni, Saqi Books, 2008).

A touchstone for thinking about the tangled relations between Islam and modernity ... the most amazing and entertaining curiosity.' Matthew J. Reisz, Jewish Quarterly 'An Imam in Paris lets us share the responses of a highly intelligent scholar ... Daniel L. Newman is to be congratulated on making the first translation into English of this remarkable book, and on supporting the text with a first-class introduction and with footnotes that are as full as one could wish. A first-class introduction ... remarkable.' TLS '[A] fine translation ... extensively and meticulously notated.' The International History About the AuthorDaniel L. Newman is Professor of Arabic and Course Director of the MA in Arabic-English Translation and Interpreting at the University of Durham. His other works include Modern Arabic Short Stories: A Bilingual Reader (with Ronak Husni, Saqi Books, 2008).