Rebelling against her strict mother, Pamela sets off for Paris at age 18 with her eccentric dad. Pamela writes about the good things about the French as well as the annoying ones! About living in a small hotel room and getting bronchitis from walking to a public bath to take showers...loved how the French remedied a cure. Then, falling in love with a French man - how romantic, however going to the Ivory Coast, not so romantic!...and how it ends up that she was on the run. Wish it had been a few chapters longer, I wanted to read more about everyone. Pamela has lived quite a colorful life and has overcome challenges that will inspire all women. I would recommend this to anyone and everyone.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful.
