A series of travel observations by a musician who happens to work on cruise ships. Provides fascinating glimpses into such places as Easter Island, Macchu Picchu, Venice and many others. A must-read for those who love to travel.

Congratulations Manny on your marvelous book. You have such a magical way of bringing to life each port you have had the privilege of visiting over the years. While many of the ports you wrote about are places I have been, I now want to go back to each and see them through your eyes. A great read....a sequel??? --Karen-Olson Smar, Digby -- Karen Olson-Smar, DigbyThe book you wrote is AWESOME and it is hard to put i down, but I am almost finished and still find it very interesting. I am being very frank and you can share my thoughts with anyone...I have been to some of the same places and could not understand why I didn't see all the things you saw. Next time I will see if I can tag along. I am so serious...it was hard to put down. --Gail Depew, San Diego, CAWith your travel, you've taken me to places and corners of this world which I may never be able to visit. encountered people whom i may not have the chance to meet. You opened up horizon and broadened up perspective into the culture and tradition of these people. Manny, thanks a lot for these experiences. I felt I've become richer through your own eyes. --Jake Clemencio, Bern, Switzerland
