Five StarsBy Peter EldridgeI remember Freedomland well and went there twice in 1960

Freedomland opened on June 19, 1960, in the Baychester section of the Bronx, New York. Designed by Marco

Engineering of Los Angeles for International Recreation Corporation, it was the third and largest innovative theme park built across America to mimic Disneyland. Constructed in the shape of the United States and presenting 200 years of American history, Freedomland was intended to be both exciting and educational. Historically themed attractions and costumed cast members were located throughout the seven sections. In addition, Freedomland offered national and local stars, big bands, and daily entertainment events. Professional character actors also worked throughout the park. Through photographs, Freedomland: 1960-1964 takes a tour of all seven sections of Freedomland and more. Although it was open for just five seasons, the parks guests and cast members were fortunate to have their very own Disneyland of the East.

About the Author Robert McLaughlin has an avid interest in theme park history. He is the author of two books in the Images of America series, Pleasure Island and Freedomland, and of Images of Modern America: Pleasure Island: 1959-1969.
