Alan Cherchesov : Requiem for the Living (New Russian Writing) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Requiem for the Living (New Russian Writing):

This novel, which critics have likened to William Faulkner and Gabriel Garcia Marquez, is a philosophical parable in which the hero's unique abilities and alienation underscore the distinctive Caucasian culture and their strict code of honor. It is told from within an endemic culture threatened by the advance of modern civilization.

"This Ossetian author skillfully blends the European and the Oriental thinking to create a 'divan': a complex Eastern literary genre, bringing to mind a Tibetan carpet. His story about the search for a lost time creates a polyphonic chorus of memories, inspiring vague associations with Tolstoy, Dostoyevsky and Gogol." --Die Welt
